1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Curbing Abuse and

1 SEC. 2. LIMITATION OF SECTION 230 IMMUNITY.

2 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 230(c) of the Communica-
3 tions Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 230(c)) is amended by add-4 ing at the end the following:

5 “(3) EXCEPTIONS RELATING TO ILLEGAL,
6 EXPLOITIVE, OR HARMFUL CONTENT.—

7 “(A) IN GENERAL.—During a period de-
8 scribed in subparagraph (D), paragraph (1)
9 shall not apply to a provider or user of an inter-10 active computer service that creates, develops, 11 posts, materially contributes to, or induces an-12 other person to create, develop, post, or materi-
13 ally contribute to illegal online content.

14 “(B) CERTAIN CONTACT BETWEEN ADULT
15 AND MINOR.—During a period described in sub-16 paragraph (D), paragraph (1) shall not apply to 17 a provider of an interactive computer service
18 that knowingly permits or facilitates an adult
19 having contact through an interactive computer 20 service of such provider with an individual that 21 such adult knows or believes to be a minor, if 22 such contact involves any matter containing ex-
23 plicit verbal descriptions or narrative accounts
24 of sexually explicit nudity, sexual conduct, sex-25 ual excitement, or sadomasochistic abuse that is

1 intended to arouse or satisfy the sexual desire 2 of either such adult or such minor.

3 “(C) CONTENT THAT IS INDECENT, OB-
4 SCENE, OR OTHERWISE HARMFUL TO MI-
5 NORS.—During a period described in subpara-
6 graph (D), paragraph (1) shall not apply to a 7 provider or user of an interactive computer
8 service that permits or facilitates the distribu-9 tion of content that—

10 “(i) is indecent, obscene, or otherwise 11 harmful to minors; and 12 “(ii) is made readily accessible to mi-

13 nors by the failure of such provider or user
14 to implement a system designed to effec-15 tively screen users who are minors from 16 accessing such content, to the extent fea-
17 sible using technology available at the time
18 of such distribution.

19 “(D) PERIOD OF LOSS OF IMMUNITY.—
20 For purposes of subparagraph (A), (B), or (C), 21 a period described in this subparagraph is—

22 “(i) any 1-year period beginning on 23 the date on which the provider engages in 24 conduct described in such subparagraph; 25 or

1 “(ii) in the case of such conduct that 2 continues for more than 1 day, any 1-year 3 period beginning on the date on which the 4 provider ceases such conduct.

5 “(E) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—This
6 paragraph shall be broadly construed to ad-
7 vance the purposes of this section for the de-8 ployment of new technologies and policies to 9 block or filter offensive content such as inde-
10 cency, obscenity, pornography, or sexually ex-
11 plicit content so as to prevent any such content 12 from being readily accessible to minors.

13 “(4) EXCEPTION FOR STIFLING FREE EXPRES-
14 SION.—

15 “(A) IN GENERAL.—Paragraphs (1) and 16 (2)(A) shall not apply to a provider of an inter-
17 active computer service that is in the business
18 or practice of communicating user-generated 19 content during any period during which such 20 provider—

21 “(i) is dominant in its market; and 22 “(ii) makes content moderation deci-

23 sions pursuant to policies or practices that 24 are not reasonably consistent with the 25 First Amendment to the Constitution.

1 “(B) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—This
2 paragraph shall be broadly construed to ad-
3 vance the purposes of this section in encour-4 aging the growth of the internet as a forum for 5 a true diversity of discourse, unique opportuni-
6 ties for cultural development, and myriad ave-
7 nues for intellectual activity, where lawful polit-8 ical, religious, cultural, social, scientific, and 9 other online content can flourish without dis-
10 crimination based on viewpoint.

11 “(5) PRIVATE RIGHT OF ACTION.—

12 “(A) IN GENERAL.—If a provider of an 13 interactive computer service that is dominant in 14 its market bans, blocks, down-ranks, demone-15 tizes in its advertising, or otherwise subjects to 16 similar adverse treatment the content of any in-17 formation content provider that uses an inter-18 active computer service of such dominant pro-
19 vider by reason of the failure of such dominant 20 provider to make content moderation decisions
21 pursuant to policies or practices that are rea-22 sonably consistent with the First Amendment to 23 the Constitution, such information content pro-
24 vider may bring a civil action in an appropriate 25 State court or an appropriate district court of

1 the United States against such dominant pro-
2 vider to obtain the relief described in subpara-
3 graph (B).

4 “(B) RELIEF.—

5 “(i) IN GENERAL.—An information
6 content provider that prevails in a civil ac-
7 tion under subparagraph (A) may obtain 8 the following relief:

9 “(I) The greater of—

10 “(aa) compensatory dam-11 ages, including both personal and 12 business economic loss; or

13 “(bb) liquidated damages in 14 the amount of $500,000 for each
15 incident of adverse treatment de-
16 scribed in subparagraph (A).

17 “(II) Punitive damages, in the 18 case of a reckless failure of the pro-
19 vider of the interactive computer serv-
20 ice to make content moderation deci-
21 sions pursuant to policies or practices 22 that are reasonably consistent with 23 the First Amendment to the Constitu-
24 tion.

1 “(ii) TREBLE DAMAGES.—In the case
2 of a willful or knowing failure of the pro-3 vider of the interactive computer service to 4 make content moderation decisions pursu-
5 ant to policies or practices that are reason-
6 ably consistent with the First Amendment
7 to the Constitution, the information con-8 tent provider may obtain, instead of the 9 amount determined under clause (i)(I),
10 three times such amount.

11 “(6) CERTIFICATION REGARDING MARKET
12 DOMINANCE AND CONTENT MODERATION POLICIES
13 AND PRACTICES.—

14 “(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 120
15 days after the date of the enactment of this 16 paragraph, the Federal Trade Commission and 17 the Attorney General shall promulgate regula-
18 tions to establish a process under which a pro-19 vider of an interactive computer service with 20 net assets or annual net revenue exceeding 21 $500,000,000 may apply for a review and cer-
22 tification by the Federal Trade Commission,
23 acting with the concurrence of the Attorney
24 General—

1 “(i) that such provider is not domi-
2 nant in its market; or

3 “(ii) if such provider is determined to 4 be dominant in its market under clause (i), 5 that the policies and practices of such 6 dominant provider relating to content mod-
7 eration, as applied to information content
8 providers using the interactive computer 9 service or interactive computer services of 10 such dominant provider, are reasonably 11 consistent with the First Amendment to 12 the Constitution.

13 “(B) EFFECT OF CERTIFICATION.—A cer-14 tification under subparagraph (A) may, in the 15 discretion of the trial court, be admissible in 16 any civil action or criminal prosecution in which 17 it is asserted that paragraph (4) applies to the 18 provider to which such certification relates, or 19 in any civil action brought under paragraph (5)
20 against such provider, but such certification
21 shall not be determinative on the issues de-
22 scribed in clauses (i) and (ii) of such subpara-23 graph.”.

1 (b) DEFINITIONS.—Section 230(f) of the Commu-
2 nications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 230(f)) is amended by 3 adding at the end the following:

4 “(5) DOMINANT IN ITS MARKET.—The term
5 ‘dominant in its market’ means, with respect to a 6 provider of an interactive computer service, that 7 such provider has gained substantial, sustained mar-
8 ket power over any competitors. Actual monopoly 9 control over a market is not required to satisfy the 10 preceding sentence.

11 “(6) REASONABLY CONSISTENT WITH THE 12 FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION.—The 13 term ‘reasonably consistent with the First Amend-14 ment to the Constitution’ means, with respect to the 15 policies and practices of a provider of an interactive 16 computer service relating to content moderation,
17 that such provider conforms such policies and prac-
18 tices to established law under the First Amendment
19 to the Constitution applicable to state actors, re-
20 gardless of whether or not such provider is a state
21 actor, to the extent feasible taking into consideration 22 the developing capabilities and complexities of tech-
23 nology and the unique characteristics of online com-
24 munication platforms.

1 “(7) MINOR.—The term ‘minor’ means an indi-
2 vidual who is under 18 years of age.

3 “(8) HARMFUL TO MINORS.—The term ‘harm-4 ful to minors’ means, with respect to content, that 5 such content contains a description or representation 6 of nudity, sexual conduct, sexual excitement, or 7 sadoomasochistic abuse that—

8 “(A) predominantly appeals to the pru-
9 rient, shameful, or morbid interest of minors;

10 “(B) is patently offensive to prevailing
11 standards in the adult community with respect 12 to what is suitable material for minors; and 13 “(C) is utterly without redeeming social 14 importance for minors.

15 “(9) ADULT.—The term ‘adult’ means an indi-16 vidual who is 18 years of age or older.”.

17 (c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by 18 this section shall apply with respect to conduct by a pro-19 vider of an interactive computer service (as defined in sec-20 tion 230(f) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C.
21 230(f))) that occurs after the date of the enactment of 22 this Act.
